Piloting: target and period

The proposal to follow the course – piloting phase – has been addressed to the teachers involved in the multiplier events in 2015 and in the online course / survey in 2016. Twelve teachers from various Italian regions accepted the proposal, three men and nine women.

All the participants had a significant experience with Quality management and procedures.

The pilot course was launched on 16 August with a deadline set for August 31, but with the willingness to leave the activities open in September to allow those who need to complete it. Seven people have now completed the course by completing the three required deliveries (one per module), filling out the satisfaction questionnaire and submitting to the final test. They will receive the IQAM Certificate.

The online tutor/facilitator has been myself (Pierfranco Ravotto).

Erasmus+

This project has been funded with support from the European Commission.

"A very interesting course, but also very demanding, requires a real interest from the participants, who must concentrate on the course to avoid losing the thread".

"I thank for giving me this great opportunity to deepen and experience the culture and the quality management through ... a 'quality' course ;-)".

"Thanks and compliments for the excellent course management and dynamic promising comparison of ideas".

"Thank you!!!!!! Excellent Course and Tutor!!!!!!".

"And thanks again for this additional comparison opportunity tha was given to us by AICA."

Next step after the piloting

The piloting confirmed the validity of the course and its structure and allowed to verify its usability and usefulness in the Italian context. It also has allowed us to collect important information for a review of the course and its adaptation to the Italian context.

AICA - an accredited institution, from the Italian Ministry of Education, for teachers training - will, after review and adaptation, offer the IQAM course to Italian teachers.
